Leading agenda setting, alignment, inspiration and monitoring; The manager performs the planning, organizing, leading and controlling. İbrahim Selim also has these features. If İbrahim Selim was a manager, he would be a good manager. Because the administrator must have legitimate power, reward power, coercive power, referent power and expert power. İbrahim Selim has these powers.

In the late 1940s, most researchers began to shift away from the trait approach and to look at leadership as a set of actual behaviors. The goal of the behavioral approach to leadership was to determine what behaviors were employed by effective leaders. These researchers assumed that the behaviors of effective leaders, and that the behaviors of effective leaders would be the same across all situations. This research led to the identification of two basic forms of leader behavior. Although different researchers applied different names, the following are the basic leader behaviors identified during this period: Task-focused leader behavior: Task-focused leader behavior occurs when a leader focused on how tasks should be performed to meet certain goals and to achieve certain performance standards. Employee-focused leader behavior: Employee-focused leader behavior occurs when a leader focused on the satisfaction, motivation, and well-being of his or her employees. Although İbrahim Selim is an emotional person, he becomes a task-focused leader because he is a person who can look at events logically and make rational decisions. In this respect, he can be a good leader.

In addition, since İbrahim Selim is also a charismatic leadership, he can be quite successful in management. Most experts today acknowledge three crucial elements of charismatic leadership:

1 Charismatic leaders envision likely future trends and patterns, set high expectations for themselves and for others, and behave in ways that meet or exceed those expectations. 2 Charismatic leaders energize others by demonstrating personal excitement, personal confidence, and consistent patterns of success. 3 Charismatic leaders enable others by supporting them, empathizing with them, and expressing confidence in them. And these features are in İbrahim Selim.

Managers have some things to do. For example, the manager should be able to manage decision making, the decision making process; must be able to manage state of certainty, state of risk and state of uncertainty. And İbrahim Selim can do them. In addition, a manager must be able to implement rational decision-making steps.

step1: The manager recognizes and defines a decision situation. step2: The manager identifies alternatives for addressing the situation. step3: the manager evaluates each of the possible alternatives. step4: The manager selects the best alternative. step5: The manager implements the chosen alternative. step6: The manager follows up and evaluates the effects of the chosen alternative.

If İbrahim Selim was a manager, he might not have time to do the things a manager needs to do because he does too much work and is too busy. so he could have been a bad manager.
